DR RACHEL MCGOWAN

D.CLIN.PSYCH, BA (HONS)

CLINICAL PSYCHOLOGIST

Dr McGowan has been an expert witness since 2017 working alongside a busy NHS practice. She has undertaken over 200 reports in that time and has completed over 75 clinical negligence reports. Dr McGowan has received numerous witness summons but is yet to give evidence in Court. She is able to opine on clinical negligence cases relating to breach of duty, liability and causation.

CLINICAL EXPERIENCE:

Alongside her private practice work, Dr McGowan is the Principal Clinical Psychologist (gastroenterology) at The Liverpool University Hospitals NHS Trust. Before this she worked in generic mental health services, having gained over 15 years of experience across a range of settings including primary care and secondary care. She has set up a clinical psychology service within an in-patient environment and is currently establishing clinical health psychology provision within an NHS gastroenterology service. Her specialisms are in chronic pain and gastroenterology.

Furthermore, she has lectured on the Clinical Psychology Doctorate courses on chronic pain and has presented to Pain Consultants, Occupational Therapists and Physiotherapists on pain psychology. She is a Clinical Supervisor to Trainee and Assistant Psychologists.
